harn remain of St. Martin's benedictine priory, found. 1132 as a cell to Ch. Ch. Canterbury by Abp. Corbeil; there is a gate also of St. Radigund's or Bradsole abbey, found. 1190; a chapel stands on the site of St. Bartholomew's lepers' hosp. (1150) at Buckland; Langdon priory was found. 1087 by Sir W. Anberville; and at Chapel plain stood, till washed away by sea 1576, our Lady of Pity's chapel for shipwrecked people. The Maison Dieu for pilgrims, found. by the Gd. Justiciary Hub. de Burgh in John's time, was turned into a victualling office, but has been reb. except the old tower, as the town hall. The pier harb., partly formed by the Plut (11½ acres) or Dour's mouth, which went further inland at one time, and first made by Hen. VIII., consists of an outer (6½ acres) and inner harb. (7½ acres), which have been frequently repaired and enlarged, but are liable to be obstructed by shingle bars; it has 14 to 20 ft. water on chalk, and admits vessels of 400 tons, while those of 200 can lie at the quays. Lights are shown at the pier-heads, which are 117 ft. apart. In D. road outside there is anchorage in 7 to 14 fath.; a harbour of refuge, of about 400 acres, is making, with entrances 700 and 150 ft. wide. Gov. mail and other packets run to Calais 20 m. and Ostend 55 m. To it belong 56 pilots, divided into upper and lower 'books,' under the Ld. Warden, and licensed to navigate vessels through the Downs and the river. In 1846, 112 sail of 5271 tons (79 being under 50 t. each) and 2 steamers of 107 t. belonged to the port, which has Folkestone, Hythe, Sandgate, for sub-ports; and the tonnage Inwards and Outwards, including repeated voyages, was, 'coastwise' 748 of 62,820, and 226 of 11,184 tons, — from and to 'colonies' 3 of 839, and 2 of 572 t., — from and to 'foreign ports' 69 of 4496, and 60 of 997 t. (besides 1173 steamers of 127,118, and 1173 of 127,602 t., 100 foreigners of 3266, and 92 of 2671 t., and 430 foreign steamers of 43,280, and 433 of 42,170 t.); total customs 40,667*l.* The Castle, which was called the 'key of England,' with its two wards and towers, covers 35 acres on a steep hill to E., at the top of which are ruins of an 8-sided Pharos of stone and tiles 40 ft. high, built A. D. 53 by O. Scapula; adjoining it are remains of a collegiate church (on site of one founded, they say, by K. Lucius) which was the burial-place of some of the Ld. Warlens, and used till 1690. Near it is Colton's gate, and around were the Godwin, Clinton, Valance, and Mortimer towers. Lower down is Hen. II.'s fine norman keep or palace of two stories, 123 ft. by 103 and 108, and 24 thick in the walls, which has a turret 468 ft. above the sea used by Gen. Roy, 1787, when measuring the meridian arc between Greenwich and Paris, and commanding a fine view, also a chapel with norman arches, etc., a dungeon, and a well which was 400 ft. deep. Around this were the Suffolk tower and palace gate, the old arsenal, king's kitchen, Arthur's hall, Harcourt's gate, Well and Armourer's towers, King's gate, Magnimot and Gore's towers, Ginevra's chamber, etc., now turned into mess-rooms, stores, etc. or pulled down: cannon are mounted on the keep, which is bomb proof. The outer court is surrounded with a curtain defended with towers built at various times by the constables or the knights who held by tenure from them, as Rothesley's, Fulbert de Dover's (now a debtor's prison, in charge of the bodor or sergeant), Hirst, Arsick or Say's, Peverell's or Beauchamp (a gate over the old saxon gate), Porth or Q. Mary's, Fienes' or New gate (the entrance from town, where the Lt. Gov. lives, and the records were kept), Clopton, Godsoe, Crevecoeur's (with a deep moat opposite the barbian), Magnimot's, Fitzwilliam, or St. John's (these b. or altered by Hub. de Burgh, who defended the cast. against the dauphin in John's time), two watch-towers, Avranche, Veville or Penchester, and other towers, near to the Ashford gate—a saxon work, placed where the cliffs rise 820 ft. above the sea, and whence Blanchard ascended in his balloon 1785. At this spot is Q. Elizabeth's pocket pistol—a brass cannon 24 ft. long, given to her by the States 1544, with a verse in dutch, signifying, "O'er hill and dale I throw my ball, Breaker—my name—of mound and wall." In 1642, Dawkes and 10 other Dover men took the castle by surprise for parl., who kept it. Barracks for 3 or 4000 men are excavated under ground, and there is a roman camp near it. On the heights opposite is the citadel, etc., and beyond, Hay or Shakspeare's cliff 350 ft. high.—The town liberties include St. Peter's, Birchington, and Wood, in Thanet, and Ringwould; and these with Faversham, Woodchurch, Gore-end, Kingsdown, Margate, and Folkestone, are members of the cinque port, which provided 21 ships with 22 hands each for the navy. In John's time, Hub. de Burgh with 40 ships defeated the French with 80, off Boulogne. Constantius Chlorus was here 300 A.D.; Rich. king of Romans 1259; Emp. Sigismund 1416; Hen. VIII. and Anne Boleyn 1520 to meet Chas. V.; Chas. I. 1625 to receive his queen; Chas. II. landed 1660; the plague brought from London 1665; Louis XVIII. returned to France 1823; Emp. Alexander, king of Prussia, 1814; Duke of Wellington, as ld. warden and constable, entertained 1839; Pr. Albert landed 1840; Q. Victoria 1842. Bp. White Kennet (b. 1660) and Ld. Chan. Hardwicke (b. 1690-1764) were natives; Foote died at the 'Ship.' It publishes the 'D. Chronicle' and 'D. Telegraph' newspapers; and gave title of baron to the Ellises. D. Road, runs nearly in the line of Watling St., to Blackheath 5 m., Shooter's Hill 8, Dartford 15, Gravesend 22, Gad's Hill where Prince Hal robbed Falstaff 26, Rochester and castle 29, Chatham 30, Milton 39, Faversham 47, Canterbury 55, Barham 61, Dover 71. The Rail, 88 m. long, made to Dover 1844 by Cubitt, cost, including branches, 3,564,172*l.*, has 7 tunnels and 14 stations, viz. New Cross 3 m., Croydon 11, Mersham 19 (tun. 1820 yds.), Reigate 21, Godstone 27 (after Bletchingly tun. 1324 yds.), Edenbridge 32, Penshurst 36, Tunbridge 41 (a branch of 5 m. to T. Walls, through the Weald, to Maidstone road 41 (and by branch to it 54), Marlen 51, Staplehurst 53, Headcorn 56, Cuckley 61, Ashford 67 (thence by branch to Hastings about 80,—also to Canterbury 81, and Whitstable 84,—also to Margate 101, Ramsgate 97, and Deal thro' Minster 102), Hythe 75, Folkestone 83 and viaduct 90 ft. high (before and after which it passes along the coast through the chalk downs, by several tunnels, as Saltwood 952 yds., Martello tun. 636 yds., Cliff tun. 1937 yds., Shakspeare cliff double tun. 1893 yds. with shafts to the top), thence to Dover by a viaduct close to the sea, protected by a wall made of shingle and lime $\frac{1}{2}$ m. long, 65 ft. high, 25 thick. These cliffs were partly excavated by blasting, and on one occasion 18,500 lbs. used at Round Down loosened 1,000,000 tons of chalk, which spread 1200 ft. into the sea, and covered 18 acres. From the station a submarine telegraph 22 m. long, across the Strait, to Cape Grisez, was laid down by Messrs. Brett, Aug. 1850, consisting of a copper wire 1-10th in. diam.

covered with gutta percha, and weighing 5 tons, with weights of 18 and 24 lbs. at every 1-16th m. to keep it at the bottom of the sea, which is 5 to 30 fath. deep; but, it was cut by the sharp rocks, and is to be replaced by a stronger one. In 1821 Gen. Colly remeasured the distance between the signals here and Calais, and found it to be 137,472 ft., differing only $12\frac{1}{2}$ ft. from that determined by Gen. Roy as above. * D. DEANERY, archdy. and dioc. of Canterbury, includes the benefices marked in Bewsboro' hund., with Alkham vic., Cheriton rect., Folkestone cur., Hawkinge r., Sandgate c., Swingfield c. *Dover P. The New County Court district corresponds with the Registry. Mht. Ds. Wed. Sat. Fairs, 28 Nov. Ruces, Oct. See Batcheller's 'Dover Guide.'

Dover, Strait of, as above, between England and France, and joining the Channel and N. Sea, is the old Fretum Gallicum, and Pas de Calais of the French, lined with chalk cliffs, which are 300 to 600 ft. high on the English side; is 21 m. broad from S. Foreland high to Calais lt., 20 from Folkestone cliffs to C. Grisez lt. (on a cliff 194 ft. high), 26 from Dungeness lt. (on a post-tertiary flat) to Boulogne cliffs,—giving an av. breadth of 22 (only 18 from Dover to C. Grisez), while the length is about 15. On the line from Hythe in E. bay to Boulogne is an uneven chalk bottom, which at Varne and Ridge shoals is only $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 fath. deep, but elsewhere 6 to 30 fath.; and hence the depths gradually increase down the Channel, but remain at about 20, 25, and 30 fath. up the N. Sea. High water at moon's full and change at $2\frac{1}{2}$ hrs.; and a 'meeting of the tides' from both seas takes place.

(exclusively,—with 640 teachers and 4980 child.); and 169 in union with the National Soc. had 14,701 child., and total grants of 5480*l.* Offenders in '48, 334 (or 288 av. of 5 yrs.), of whom 253 were convicted (3 hung), 72 were females, 11 under 15 yrs. of age, 120 could not read or write. Following the sup. registry districts of '45 (total pop. 326,043 + 7461) the 'births' were 12,866, of whom 6618 were females, 804 or 6·3 per cent. illegit.; 'deaths' 7027 or 1 in 45, the all-England av. being 46; 'marriages' 8251 (at church 8001), of which 2375 persons, or 34·3 per cent., signed with marks. Coal, which forms part of the great Northern field, fills a space about 25 m. by 10 in the Mid. and N. parts of the county, or $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ of the whole,—bounded nearly by a line from Shields to Painshaw, along E. side of the Wear to Ferry Hill, past Stainton (near Tees), Wilton-le-Wear, Wolsingham to Ebchester on Derwent; the beds, of which there are about 40, being 3 to 8 or 10 ft. thick, and in one part near Painswick worked 1800 ft. deep. On the E. side of this, a line from Hartlepool to near Darlington divides the magnesian limestone from the new red sandstone which fills the SE. corner; and on the W. millstone grit or shale, with sandstone, thin coal measures, etc. forms the base of the black peaty moorlands, except carboniferous limestones bordering the dales at the head of the Tees, Wear, Derwent, etc. Here Kilhope Low rises 2196 ft. (near Cross Fell 2902), Collier Low 1678, Pontop Pike 1018, Parlo Pike, etc.;—and lead (employing 1461 hands) is worked (7628 tons in 1889) yielding 12 oz. silver to the ton; millstone, around Wolsingham, Stanhope, Muggleswick,—with spotted marble at Frosterley; firestone in Teesdale; ironstone at Chester-le-Street, etc. grindstones at Gateshead. A greenstone dyke (where the strata are suddenly thrown out) crosses from Egglestone, over the Tees at Preston towards Whitby—others from Wolsingham to Hawthorpe, and from Newcastle to Cleadon.

Lanchester, Wotton Gilbert, St. And. Auckland, Brancepeth, Bp. Wearmouth, Castle Eden, Monk Heslerton, Bps. Middleham, are the chief places for working coal (15,202 hands) which is shipped chiefly at Sunderland and Shields. The iron, nail, cable, anchor manufactures (1637 hands) are carried on at Lumley, Swalwell, Winton, etc.; glass (858) Stockton, Sunderland, Shields,—where also rope, sails, etc. are made, and chemicals, etc. at Heworth; linen and woollen (about 2000) at Durham, Darlington (sheetings, diapers, etc. and optical glasses), Cast. Eden, Stockton, Bp. Auckland, Bedlington; earthenware employs 520 hands, carpets 385, paper 225. In 1847 (a bad year) 638, 225 were in the worsted and flax mills respectively. Smaller rivers are the Browney, Sleekburn, Gaunless, Bedburn, with many burns or becks, into the Wear,—Derwent and Urpeth into the Tyne,—Skernes to the Tees, which has, above Newbiggin, two fine falls, the High Force (70 ft.), and Cauldron Spout, and abounds with salmon. Soil in the valleys fertile and loamy; oats (30 bush. per acre), barley, wheat (35 bush. each), turnips, beans, peas, are the chief crops; much pasture in the uplands for the hardy Cheviot sheep, of which the stock, including the good short-horned long-wooled Teeswater breed, is about 230,000, yielding 7000 packs; cattle a large superior breed which fatten well (the "Durham ox" weighed upwards of 3800 lbs.), and produce 25 to 30 quarts of milk a day in the dairy; hay $1\frac{1}{2}$ tons per acre. Farms on the average are 150 to 200 acres, much of the land being copyhold from the Bishop, who still has a large portion; farm buildings are middling,—'massin' bread, a mixture of rye and wheat, is a common diet. Among the native plants are alfalfa rumicoides or plantain, linum perenne perennial flax, cyperus, and speedwell at Darlington,—cypripedium calceolus ladies' slipper, and lily of the valley, Castle Eden Dere,—isatis tinctoria woad, on the Wear,—anthesis tinctoria ox-eye camomile —chara tomentosa brittle chara, at the Hell Kettle —astragalus glycyphyllos liquorice vetch, Coningscliffe —gentiana verna and Burnet rose, near High Force. Among the antiquities are: remains of priories at Jarow (where Bede was born, and his chair is kept) and Finchale; nunnery at Nesham; St. Cuthbert's saxon church at Holy Island; Bernard Castle (the Balials); roman stations at Maiden Castle, Castle's camp, near St. John Wear-dale, Ebchester (anc. Vindomara), Lanchester (Epiacum), Binchester (Vincovium), Pierce bridge (Ad Tiam), and Brandon camp (875 ft. with a good view) all on the N. Watling St. which had a branch from Lanchester, through Chester-le-Street, to Shields. Garth was born at Bolam, Emerson at Hurworth, Ritson at Stockton; Bernard Gilpin was rector of Houghton; battle of Neville's Cross was fought 1346 near Beaurepaire house, an old seat of the priors of Durham. Mer-rington has a fine prospect, and at Bp. Wearmouth is the iron bridge 286 ft. span. Some of the seats are: Duke of Cleveland Roby Castle (old), the Bishop Bp. Edwin, who founded the castle and kept his Northumbrian court here up to his death 634 (whence its gaelic name of Dun-Edin and the modern Edina; Dun-monaidh, or 'hill of the moor,' is another highland name for it); became part of Scotland 1020, and was the scene of Q. Margaret's death, in the castle, 1093; was improved by Dav. I., who founded Holyrood, the monks of which began to build Canongate; made a royal burgh and mint town by Will. the Lion, when it was called Edwinesburg; given up to England 1174, and restored 1186; was the place of Alex. II.'s parl. 1214-5, of a church council 1289, and Alex. III.'s court about 1251; held by Edw. I. 1291 and '94; taken by Randolph 1312, besieged 1322 by Edw. II.; the spot where parls. were held by Bruce 1326-7, and Edw. Balliol 1333-4, when it was given up to Edw. III., who fortified it 1355; taken by the Black Douglas 1341; was the place sometimes of Rob. II.'s court; visited 1384, by Froisart, when it had 4000 houses; burnt 1385, by Rich. II., and besieged by Hen. IV.; was the court of Jas. I. (of Scotland), where his son, Jas. II., was born—and crowned 1437, from which time it came to be reckoned the capital; given up, after a siege, to Jas. II., who walled it 1450, and married Mary of Gueldres here 1449; was the retreat of Hen. VI. after the battle of Towton, in Jas. III.'s time, who here married Marg. of Denmark 1469; the place of Jas. IV.'s first parl. 1488, and of his marriage with Hen. VII.'s daughter 1503; ravaged by the plague 1513; strengthened 1514, after the battle of Flodden, when the town guard was organised; first lighted 1532, when the College of Justice was established; fired 1544, by the Protector Somerset, garrisoned 1548 by the French; stirred up by Knox's preaching 1556-7, and occupied 1558 by the 'Lords of the Congregation,'—the catholic party holding Leith; was the scene of the First Assembly of the Reformed Kirk 1660; of Mary's reception 1561, her marriage to Darnley 1565,—Jas. VI.'s birth 1566, after Rizzio's murder; of Darnley's being blown up (in a house on the university site), of a parl. of Mary's marriage to Bothwell, her flight, and return from Carberry hill 1567; of the Regent Murray's assassination 1570, and Kirkaldy of Grange's execution after holding the castle for the queen, against the regents Lennox and Morton; of Jas. VI.'s first parl. 1579, and Morton's execution by the "maiden" (which he had himself brought into use); and of the founding of the university by Jas. VI., who called it "King James's College"; was ravaged by the plague 1586 (and 1645); visited by Earl Bothwell 1591, in his attempt to seize the king, whose daughter Eliz., queen of Bohemia and grandmother of Geo. I., was born here 1596, and who held a parl. 1599, which altered the beginning of 1600 from Mar. to Jan.,—left 1603 (after granting the 'Golden Charter'), to take the crown of England as Jas. I., but visited it again 1617; was visited also by Ch. I., who was crowned here 1633, and brought in episcopacy 1637, which the Gen. Assembly of 1638 at Glasgow, got rid of; visited again 1641, by Charles, after Lealy took the castle 1640; was the place where the Solemn League and Covenant was signed 1643, of Montrose's execution 1650, and the proclamation of Ch. casual poor. Schools about 280, attended by 14,450 child.; av. no. of offenders ('36-46) 152. The surface is a succession of hills and cultivated vales, the most noted of which, the "Howe of Fife," lies along the Eden; the soil being in general loamy, with some beds of good marl, — but moory on the W., where W. Lomond rises 1709 ft., E. Lomond 1260 ft.; other points are, Largo Law 1020, Kellie Law 800. It forms the N.E. corner of the great coal basin, — the whinstone being chiefly N. of the Eden, near which mountain limestone appears, — and S. of it abundance of sandstone and coal, which is worked (2608 hands employed) at Cameron, Crail, Kemback, and Kilconquhar (limestone at both), Pittenween, Cultra, Beath, Carnock, Dalgety, Dunfermline (from the year 1291 — with limestone), and Dysart (ironstone at both), Markinch, Balingay, etc. Building stone quarried at Cultra, Dairsie, Dunfermline, Strathmiglo, Kilconquhar, etc.; clay and lime are abundant. About 16,000 hands (only 8164 in 1847 — a bad year) are engaged in the manufacture of flax, coarse and table linen, as diapers, damasks, — which is carried on almost everywhere, especially at Dunfermline (where the fly shuttle was invented by Wilson), Newburgh, Dysart, Kirkcaldy, Kinghorn, Leslie, Abernethy, Kennoway, Abbotshall, etc.; cottons employ 1400 hands; bricks and pottery are made at Aberdour, and salt at Dysart. Game and fish abound. Kinghorn has a mineral water, and the lochs are, Lindores, Kilconquhar, Camilla, with Rossie and Orr which have been reclaimed by draining. This is extensively practised with great benefit here as elsewhere, and though rents are high, the farmers are in good condition with improved buildings, and the people industrious and thriving. Estates well divided, from 50 to 5000 acres, and few entailed. Oats, wheat, barley, potatoes, beans, are the principal crops; flax, turnips, clover, etc. are raised; and linen, corn, potatoes, pigs, are exported through Kirkcaldy, etc. Black cattle and cows are numerous, and of a good breed. Leases run 19 yrs. and the av. wages are 9*s.* There are druid remains at Largo, a camp at Norman's Law, cairn at Collesie, a round tower at Abernethy, the capital of the pictish K. Offenders in '48, including Bristol, 1042 (or 1003 av. of 5 yrs.), of whom 788 were convicted, 188 were females, 52 under 15 yrs. of age, 276 could not read or write. Following the Sup. Registry districts of '45 (total pop. 895,533 + 4084) the 'births' were 12,253, of whom 6060 were females, 811 or 6½ per cent. illegit.; 'deaths' 8364, or 1 in 46, — the all-England av. being the same; 'marriages' 3800 (at church 3200), of which 2578 persons, or 83½ per cent., signed with marks. A bed of lias runs through from about Bath, Bitton, etc. (where 'bath stone' is got) to Gloucester, and along E. side of Severn, rising 700 to 1000 ft. at the Cotswolds (shale, marlstone, etc.), the highest points being Symond's Hill 795 ft., Cleave Hill 1134 ft., Broadway Tower 1086 ft., Donnington Hill 883 ft., and Churchdown, near Glo'ster, 2550 ft. (?); oolite, or gypsum, lies on the E. side of this, and the W. is occupied by old and new red sandstone (lower red about Newent), with a coal bed in Dean Forest (10 m. by 4, and veins 2 to 5 ft. thick), and another from Bristol to Kingswood (10 m. by 2), both edged with carboniferous limestone. Iron is worked in Forest of Dean (15,000 tons per an.), Iron Acton, Bitton, Stone, Lydney, etc.; coal (employing 2756 hands) in the Forest, Newent, and at Kingswood, Westerleigh, Mangotsfield, Bitton, Pucklechurch, Lynton, Iron Acton, Wyke, Abson, etc.; limestone, with many fossils, in the Forest, Cromhall, Aust, Sodbury, Westbury, — with lead at the last two; a little zinc at Redland, Yates, etc.; also traces of lead, strontian, etc. in other parts, and quartz 'diamonds' at Clifton; stone is quarried in the Cotswold, Thornbury (toadstone), Dursley (puff-stone, which hardens in the air), Dagham Down (curiously marked), Cotham, Painswick, etc. Woollen cloths (about 6570 hands) are spun, made, and dyed at Bisley, N. Hampton, Stroud, Painswick, Woodchester, Hurley, K. Stanley, Dursley, Wotton-under-Edge, Uley, Northleach, Rodboro', etc., — but the manufact. is declining; hats (984 hands) at Frampton-Cotterell, Pucklechurch, Bitton, Westerleigh; cotton (940 hands) at Bristol, etc.; pins (524) at Glo'ster; iron, sugar, glass, etc. at Bristol; stockings, lace, at Tewkesbury; curriers' knives at C'tster, and tools at Coaley (?): — in 1847, a bad year, 1530, 5308, 95, and 497 hands were in the cotton, woolen, flax, and silk mills respectively. The small rivers are the Frome, Wye, Thames (which rises under the Cotswolds), Calne, Windrush, Ledden; and there are good mineral springs at Cheltenham, Walton, Clifton, and near Glo'ster. As to soil, etc. the county is divided into three districts, i. e. the Forest (43,000 acres), where oak and beech timber abound, and the styre apple is grown in the orchards; the Hill, or Cotswold (about 200,000 acres), chiefly meadow, and sheep farms (200 to 1000 acres), with a dry, chalky, or sandy soil mixed with gravel, and growing corn (16 to 20 bush. per acre), barley (32 bush.), turnips, sainfoin, etc., — wages being 6 to 7s., and harvest a fortnight later; the Vale of the Severn under the Cotswolds, nearly all dairy land, thickly hedged, and including the vales of Evesham, — of Glo'ster, 60,000 acres of rich loam, in ridges, growing much fruit, wheat (24 to 28 bush.), barley (40 bush.), oats, beans (20 to 30 bush.), turnips, potatoes, with good water meadows by the river, producing 2½ tons per acre, — and of Berkeley, 50,000 ac., the most fertile, growing corn, beech, etc., with orchards, and formerly vineyards, but now chiefly grass land for butter and double glo'ster cheese. Stock of sheep of various choice breeds, about 550,000, yielding 15,550 wool-packs; Berkshire swine are reared, — and the cattle, chiefly a good native breed, are fattened with oil-cake, each cow producing yearly 8 to 4 cwt. of cheese, which is made between May and July, or later, and coloured with annatto, — but much 'glo'ster' really comes from Wills. System of agriculture, mid-dling, but improving; several estates are large, and farms are of all sizes, mostly from 200 to 500 acres, some on leases from 7 to 21 yrs.; enclosures, on the hills, of stone. At C'tster is the agricult. college, near Lord Bathurst's seat. Among the antiquities are: british camps at Sponebed, Towberry Hill; roman at Broad Barrow, Woodchester (where a fine pavement, etc. were found by Lysons), Kings Stanley, Bourton-

on-the-Water (on Fosse road), N. Cerney, Lydney, Aust ferry, Wyke, Grovesend, Icombe, Oldbury, Lit. Sodbury, Saperton, etc.; saxon at Almondbury (or Amberley ?), Dyrham, Meon hill, Willersley, — and the danish "tingle stone" in Gatcombe pk.; abbeys at Lanthony, C'tster, Hayles; priories at Hasledon, Horsley, Kynley, Stanley St. Leonard; good or old churches at C'tster, Fairford (with stained windows), Northleach, Elkstone, Tewkesbury, Deerhurst; castles at Berkeley (where the unhappy Edw. II. was murdered), Beverstone (the Berkeleys'), St. Briavell's (Fitzwalters'), Sudeley (Botellers'), and Thornbury. Campden was an old seat of the Hickeses and Noels; Quenington had a Templars' preceptory, and there is an old cross at Iron Acton. Bp. Fox, a pillar of the Reformation, was born at Dursley, Sir M. Hale at Alderley, Bradley the astronomer at Sherbourne (?), W. Hastings at Daylesford, Kyrie "the man of Ross" at Whitehouse, Jenner at Berkeley, and C'tster gives name to the learned monk Richard. At Tewkesbury, Edw. IV. utterly defeated 1471 the Lancastrians; and Birdlip Hill has a fine prospect. Chief seats are: Duke of Beaufort Badminton Pk., Earl Bathurst Oakley, E. Fitzhardinge Berkeley Cast., E. Wemyss Stanway, E. Ellenborough Southam (old), E. Ducie Woodchester, Lord Dynevor Barrington Pk., Ld. J. Hanley and Feiky 1457-98; abbot's house (afterwards the palace) and chapel by the last Ab. Parker; E. window with 37 figures in it, 79 ft. by 35½, being the largest in England; whispering gallery 75 ft. long, forming 5 sides of an octagon, near E. window of choir; 81 carved stalls, screen by Kent; library or chapter ho., where the Lacs etc. were buried; deanery, where 1685-7 Jas. II. touched for the king's evil; old picture of the 'Judgment' in S. aisle; and tombs of Edw. II. (very old), Humphrey Bohun (?), K. Ric. who found. a nunnery, several abbots, Rob. Curthose, Judge Powell, Dr. Jenner, Bigland the antiquary, and Mrs. Morley by Flaxman. Synods were held here 804, 1189; writenagations 896, 1053; and parliaments 1234 (by Hen. III. who was crowned here 1216), 1378, 1413 and 1417, 1420 (by Hen. V.); the Conqueror always spent Christmas here, as did Rufus, who met Malcolm of Scotland here 1093; Hen. I. was here 1123 to choose an archbishop; Hen. VI. 1430; Ric. III. 1483; Hen. VII. 1485; Hen. VIII. 1533; Geo. III. 1788, and Prince of Wales 1807. At Kingsholm, the site of the roman station, coins, urns, collans, lamps, beads, a brass steel yard (the finest of the kind) have been found; and there are remains of a barn and gate of Lanthony abbey, of St. Oswald's austrian friary found. as a college by Ethelred, of greyfriars church, and blackfriars church (1259 by Hen. III.), of Edw. I.'s gate on site of the Lichgate, and the Vineyard Ho. a moated country seat b. 1351 by Ab. Staunton, and an old coach. A cross 69½ ft. high, of Ric. III.'s time, was taken down 1749, and there are no remains of Sir

T. Berkeley's whitefriary, of which Cantelupe, a native, was abbot. Among other natives were the monks Benedict and Robert of G., C. Osbernus, and another Osborne a scholar; Abp. Moore (d. 1804), Rastell the jesuit; Corbet, Crowley and Wintle, divines; Judge Powell (d. 1718); Harris the physician; Taylor the water poet; Capell a writer; Whitefield (1714-70) born at the 'Bell,' which was kept by the present Bp. Jennings, Forbes by Romney, Earl Sandwich by Gainsborough, Barrington by Reynolds, 'Cutting out the Hermione' by Pocock, J. Worley (one of the earliest pensioners, admitted Dec. 1704, died 97 yrs. old), Marq. D'uchêne by Steuben, Sir H. Willoughby, Van Tromp, — besides Nelson's coat and waistcoat at Trafalgar (given by Pr. Albert), and some pictures by Westall, etc., and a bronze of Sir S. Smith, in the 'Nelson Room,' — busts, of Will. IV. by Chantrey (given by Q. Adelaide), Smith by Kirke, Exmouth by M'Dowell, Saumarez by Steele, and Vernon, — casts from statues, of Howe, St. Vincent, Duncan, Nelson, — models of the 'Centurion' and other ships, Nelson's coat at the Nile, Drake's astrolabe (given him by Q. Eliz.), and a sketch of Greenwich palace (1690). 'Q. Mary's,' b. 1699-1752, has 13 wards, — and the chapel 111 ft. by 52, restored by 'Athenian' Stuart, in a very embellished style, on site of one burnt 1779 — having a portal with a frieze by Bacon, some costly pillars, bust of Gov. Keats (given by his shipmate Will. IV.), 'St. Paul at Melita' by West, whose designs are carved around the pulpit and painted on the walls. In the vaulted basement below are the men's dining halls and smoking room. At the E. gate is the cheque office, b. 1815, and near W. gate (which was reb. 1850, of brick faced with stone, and has two 6 ft. globes, with Anson's track marked on one) are the infirmary, 193 ft. by 175 (by Stuart 1763-4), brewery, cemetery (towards the Park), with a mausoleum, in which Lieut. Welsh (the first one appointed) Tindal translator of Rapin, once a chaplain here, and many of the governors, are buried. The establishment (1850) includes 3 resident commissioners, a master or governor, lieut. gov., 3 captains, 4 commanders, 8 lieuts., 2 masters, 2 chaplains, medical and surgical staff, secretary, steward, cashier, etc., and 2710 men (exclusive of out-pensioners), who receive 1s. to 2s. 6d. per week 'tobacco money,' are in 64 wards (each under the charge of a boatswain and mates), with 97 nurses, who are seamen's widows; with an income of 149,781l., chiefly made up by 6d. per month from all seamen in the navy, 82,491l. from funded prop., grant from parl., tolls of the market (given by Earl Romney 1700), rents of N. and S. Foreland lights, and of the Derwentwater forfeited estates (29,219l.) on which are many lead and coal mines. Among the governors were: Sir W. Gifford (1708), Lord Aylmer (1714), Jennings (1720), Balchen (1744), Lord Hamilton (1746), J. Townshend (1754), Rodney (1765), T. Holbourn, Sir C. Hardy (1771), Palliser (1780), Hood (1798), Keats, Sir T. Hardy, Stopford; Evelyn was first treasurer; Vanbrugh was appointed surveyor 1716, and succeeded by C. Campbell, Ripley, Stuart, Sir K. Taylor, etc. Improvements have been effected by the commissioners in the market and road to the pier, — and from those made by stopping up Friar's road between the college and infirmary, and the removal of small outbuildings and gardens around, including the pavilions on the terrace, the excellencies of this noble pile are now displayed to great advantage. A view of the old palace is at the Antiq. Society's, Somerset Ho. — Across the main road are the Hospital School buildings, which consist of Q. Henrietta's palace, or Pelham or 'Middle' House (finished by In. Jones 1635), with two later wings of 815 ft. united by open colonnades 175 ft. long, and a full-rigged model of a frigate in front; they include a chapel, school-rooms, dining-hall, dormitories (slung with hammocks), workshops (where tailoring, shoemaking, knotting, splicing, and sailmaking and armourers' work are taught to the lower school), lecture room, gymnastic and tennis grounds, swimming pond, and infirmary 146 ft. by 42, — b. 1783, by Stuart, for the original hosp. or nautical school, begun 1716 (with 10 boys, under Mr. Weston — whose portrait, with Flamstead's, is in the Painted hall — and increased to 60, 1731), and held in the hosp. till moved here, but in 1821 again moved to its present site, and incorp. with the 'Naval Asylum,' which having been found. 1805, for orphan boys and girls, after Trafalgar, was brought over from Paddington. The girls' school was broken up altogether 1842; and the present establishment consists of 800 boys, sons of seamen and marines (including officers' sons in the upper schools), maintained for 1212s. 8½d. per week, and under an improved system of instruction and training, which makes it the best professional nursery in the kingdom. In the nautical or senior school, with 4 masters, the most advanced boys are taught mathematics, navigation, naut. astronomy, chart drawing, observations, marine surveying; and hence hundreds of young officers have been sent out to the naval and merchant services, by the present head master (Mr. Riddle), to whose exertions its present high position is mainly due. Boys of the upper (properly middle) school (6 masters), are taught arithmetic, writing, singing, etc., with the elements of science and mathematics, and, when fit, draughted to the nautical school. The lower school, with 7 masters, for 400 sons of seamen and marines, affords a good useful education, with singing, and, for the seniors, the first rudiments of math. and science. The beautiful Park of 200 acres, laid out by Le Nôtre 1664, in Charles II.'s time, with elms, chestnuts, etc., contains One-Tree hill (where a naval column 230 ft. high was proposed to be built), with a fine view of the hosp., river, etc.; the Wilderness or preserve for deer; clump of trees called Q. Elizabeth's bower; Park Keeper's lodge, with an oak 60 ft. girth; Long Walk, which 60 or 60 yrs. ago was a select promenade on sunday, for the governor, officers, and gentry; Ranger's House, towards Blackheath (lately held by Princess Sophia, now by Earl Aberdeen); some barrows, in which spear heads, knives, etc., were found 1784; reservoir for the hosp.; and the Observatory, 214 ft. (?) above the river, found. 1675-6, by Ch. II. (on the site, and with part, of Duke Humphrey's tower, — where Mary daughter of Edw. IV. died, Hen. VIII. lodged a 'fayre ladye,' Elizabeth confined Leicester, and Henry Earl of Northampton, founder of Norfolk Coll., lived), for the astronomers royal, — a post filled by Flamstead (appointed 1676, and his 'Historia Cœlestis' of 8310 stars, pub. 1725), Halley (1719), Bradley (1742 — his catalogue of 8222 stars pub. by Bessel), Bliss (1762), Maake-lyne (1765), Pond (1811 — made a catalogue of 1000 stars). It has an old quadrant by Graham (1725), equatoreal, mural circle by Jones, another by Hardy, and a 10 ft. transit by Troughton, zenith sector, front-view reflecting telescope by Ramsay (1820) not in use, time ball on E. dome, for ships to rate their chronometers by (in lat. $51^{\circ} 28' 39''$ N.), exactly under the meridian of Greenwich, from which longitude is measured in all English maps, — a deep well (covered over) where stars could be seen in the day-time, — and a magnetic and meteorological apparatus set up by Prof. Airey, ast. royal (since 1835). Chronometers for the navy are regulated here; but the chief business is to observe and register the transits or meridional passages of the sun, moon, stars, etc., night and day. From the Meteorolog. Reports for 1841-7, it appears: that the mean height of the barometer (at 32° Fahr. and 159 ft. above the sea) is 29.761 in.; mean temp. of air $49^{\circ} 20'$ (being 0° below the av. of 25 yrs., — and the mean highest being $88^{\circ} 8'$, mean lowest 15°), of dew point $47^{\circ} 59'$, of the river 58° (av. of 2 yrs. only, close to the Dreadnought); prevailing winds SW. to WSW., — the mean greatest pressure being 18.4 lbs. to sq. foot; mean amount of cloud 6.8 (the maximum being 10); fall of rain at the ground 24.4 in., — the highest being 38.8 in. (1841), lowest 17.6 (1847). In 1841-5, one hour out of 64 was calm in the day, 1 out of 34 in the night; 9 dys. on the av. per year were cloudless (in 1843, not one), and 50 all cloud. — Hen. VIII. held tournaments here 1511, and 1536 when Anne Boleyn was arrested, also 1513 when the first masquerade was performed in England, and 1515 when Ch. Brandon married his sister Mary; Edw. VI. died 1554; Eliz., who kept court here, was entertained by the city in the Park 1539, the Low Country deputies offered her the crown 1585, the danish and polish embassies were received 1586, 1597, and here Hentzner the traveller saw her; Q. Mary (1688) and Geo. I. landed here, — and the mother of Geo. III. in —; Nelson's body was brought here 1805-6, from Trafalgar. An old carved house near Crawley's wharf was the seat of Sir W. Boreham (Ch. II.); Johnson — struck with the seat that gave Edna's birth — lodged next to the 'Golden Hart' in Church St. 1737, and composed his 'Irene' in the Park; Lord Chesterfield lived at what is now the Ranger's House; Vanbrugh built Vanb. house on Maize hill, after the model of the Bastille, — and Vanb. castle, or 'Minced Pie house,' near it. Dr. Burney's school was in Stockwell St., and Dr. Crombie's near Maize Hill chapel. Ducarel the antiquary, Goddard the Gresham professor (b. 1617), and Munro the physician (b. 1715), were natives; and Admls. Lawson and Leake residents. It publishes the 'Kentish Mercury' newspaper, and gave title of duke to the great Argyll. Woodlands, J. Angerstein, Esq. For Blackheath see that name. GUERNSEY ISLAND, the second of the Channel Islds. lying off the French coast, 18 m. from Jersey, 26 m. from Cape la Hogue, 100 SW. by S. of Southampton, and head of a bailiwick, including Alderney, Serq, Herm, Jethou, Caskets, Le Marchant (or Lihou), was Sarnia or Sarnia of the Romans, part of Normandy from 892, and through that, of England from 1108; was ravaged by the Danes and other pirates,—held for a few years by France (Edw. III.) and Ivan, a Welshman in league with Spain; was taken by parl. in the civil war, and visited by the Queen 1848, and is called 'Little England' by the natives. Shape as isosceles triangle,—length from Pleinmont pt. NE. to Fort Doyle 9 m., greatest breadth 5 m. av. ditto 3; circuit round the coast about 26 m. rocky and exposed throughout, especially the W. and S. sides, having along the East side (6 m. long), Fort Doyle at the N. corner with Brze rocks off it, St. Sampson's harb., Belgrave bay, St. Peter's port and pier harb. (off which are Castle Cornet on a rock, and Herm, Jethou, etc. divided by the Little Russell channel), Fort George telegraph 400 ft. high, St. Martin's point and Doyle pillar 408 ft. high at SE. corner,—along the South side (7 m.), Moulin Huet, Petit Bot, and other bays, Pleinmont pt. at SW. corner,—along the West side (13 m.), Hanois rocks, Rocquaine bay and La Pendante, Perelle bay and Lihou and Couchees islds., Vasou bay, Grand Havre, L'Ancrese bay where Duke Robert's fleet anchored 1080. The depths around are 8 to 20 fath. the tides rising 30 ft. and running strong,—and abundance of fish are caught. It contains about 40,000 virgees or 16,000 (?) acres; 26,649 + 230 persons, chiefly norman-speaking, of whom 15,220 are in St. Peter's Port (where many half-pay officers, etc. from England reside, on account of the cheapness of living), 14,628 are females, 11,131 are under 20 yrs. of age, 20,132 island born,—and including 848 farmers and graziers, 809 seamen, 223 shipbuilders, 178 fishermen, 126 quarriers, 2477 labourers and servants, etc.; 4162 houses, besides 241 empty and building; 10 parishes or rectories (with churches built between 1111 and 1322), St. Peter Port or Town, the capital, mkt. town, etc. (E. side), St. Andrew (Mid.), Forest (S.), St. Martin (SE.), St. Mary de Castro or The Côtel (Mid. the largest), St. Peter du Bois (SW.), St. Sampson (NE. the oldest church), St. Saviour (SW.), Torteval (SW.), The Vale (N.); is governed by a lieut. gov., bailly, lieut. bailly, sheriff or vicomte, deputy vicomte, etc. and a body of 32 (or 37 since 1844) states of deliberation, composed of a bailly or speaker, procureur or attorney, 8 rectors, and 12 jurors who are chosen by the states of election (now 222) viz. the par. constables (10), and douzainers (about 140 ?), who are first chosen by the rate-payers; is in the jurisdiction of a bailly, procureur, and 12 jurors (for life) of the royal court, which sits 6 weeks after 15 Jan., Easter Mond., and 29 Sept.; and constitutes a deanery in the diocese of Winchester (from 1568, formerly Salisbury and Coutances) province of Canterbury. Schools, in every par. and Q. Elizabeth's college at St. Peter's,—where there is a savings bank (117,613*l.* from 4116 depositors), poorhouse, etc. All of certain age are liable to serve in the militia, which is exercised periodically. —Granite is the substratum, appearing as gneiss in the S. where the ground is highest, and the cliffs run 250 ft. in some parts, and falling thence to the sientie in the N. where some good meadow land is found. It is quarried in Vale and St. Sampson's, etc. and shipped for building and paving stones; other exports are gypsum, vinegar, bricks, cattle, fruit, potatoes, etc. Rivers are short, and the surface is rather dry and barren, but some small elms are grown, and the furze hedges and gardens are numerous. Soil of middling quality, suited to bulbous plants, as the G. lily (a native of Japan). The climate is mild and equal, mean temp. being 42°; myrtles, melons, and oranges are grown, and cider made; chief crops are mangel-wurzel, potatoes (from which spirits are distilled), parsnips (once the staple), wheat,—but much of this, and of barley and oats, is imported; good butter is produced, the cattle being excellent milkers; swine, a large, but the horses, a poor, breed. From the excessive division of land, most of the estates or farms are under 12 acres, and badly cultivated, but the cottages are neat and comfortable; rent is 10*s.* to 10*l.* an acre. Woollen guernsey frocks are no longer made. At Norman point a large cromlech was opened 1812, and other druid remains are seen at Perelle bay, and L'Ancrese common; also a celtic pillar, with Cornet and Ivy castles, and another at St. Michael's, where was a priory. Moulin Huet and Saints bays have fine views; excellent macadamized roads run to all parts; and the coast is defended by martello towers. It publishes the 'G. Advertiser,' 'G. Comet,' 'G. Gazette,' 'G. Star,' and gives title of baron to Earl of Aylesford. In 1846, 120 sail of 13,263 tons (24 being under 50 t. each) belonged to the isld., which is a sub-port to Southampton, and has a total revenue (1843) of 755*l.* chiefly from a duty on spirits. Gibbons; second presence chamber—Fialetti's 'Doge of Venice in senate house,' Titian's 'Alex. de Medici,' Vanduyke's 'Ch. I. on horseback,' Van Somer's 'Christ. IV. of Denmark'; audience chamber—a silver chandelier, 5 paintings by S. Ricci, Titian's 'Ignatius Loyola' and 'His Uncle,' Honthorst's 'Queen of Bohemia,' King's drawing room—the 'Cornaro family' after Titian, Beechey's 'Geo. III. reviewing 10th Dragoons'; K. Will. III.'s bed-room—bed put up 1692, D. Quare's clock which goes 366 days, Verrio's ceiling, and Lely's beauties of Ch. II.'s court, including Anne duch. of York, duch. of Portsmouth, Nell Gwynne, duch. of Cleveland, countess Grammont, etc.; King's dressing room—ceiling by Verrio; King's writing closet—Honthorst's 'Villiers family'; Q. Mary's closet—Ricci's 'Continence of Scipio,' Da Vinci's 'Herodias with the Baptist's head.' In the E. front 828 ft. long, are: Queen's gallery—7 pieces of gobeline tapestry after Le Brun's 'Life of Alexander,' with many old portraits, etc. as 5 of Q. Eliz. by Holbein, Zucchero, etc., 'Earl of Surrey,' 'Hen. VIII.,' 'Erasmus,' 'Francis I.,' etc., Van Bassen's 'K. and Q. of Bohemia dining in public,' ditto 'Ch. I. and II.,' Janette's 'Mary Q. of Scots,' Holbein's 'Battle of Pavia;' Queen's state bed chamber—bed first put up about 1700, ceiling by Thornhill, Van Somer's 'Jas. I.' his 'Queen,' and son 'Henry;' Queen's drawing room—41½ by 84½, ceiling by Verrio, West's 'Geo. III. and family,' 'Death of Wolfe,' 'Swearing of Hannibal,' etc.; Queen's audience chamber—Holbein's 'Hen. VIII. and family,' 'Hen. VIII. embarking at Dover in the Great Harry,' 'Battle of the Spurs,' 'Field of Cloth of Gold;' public dining room—five pieces of tapestry, Spagnoletto's 'Dun Scotus,' Murillo's 'Don Carlos;' Prince of Wales's presence chamber—Myten's 'Count Gondomar,' De Mabuse's 'Adam and Eve,' Jansen's 'Villiers duke of Buckingham;' Pr. of Wales's drawing room—Knaption's 'Fred. Pr. of Wales and family,' Zeeman's 'Q. Caroline,' Kneller's 'Louis XIV.,' 'Sir R. Walpole;' Queen's private chapel; private dining room—state beds of Will. III. and Q. Mary; Queen's private chamber—Murillo's 'Spanish boy;' King's private dressing room—tapestry of battle of Solebay, and some Delft vases brought over by Will. III.; Geo. II.'s private chamber; closet—the famous Cartoons of Raphael, drawn for Leo X. in chalk and distemper, on paper (now pasted on cloth), and bought by Rubens for Ch. I., viz. (7 out of 11)—'Dragnet of Fishes,' 'Charge to Peter,' 'Peter and John healing the lame man,' 'Death of Ananias,' 'Elymas the sorcerer,' 'Paul and Barnabas at Lystra,' 'Paul preaching at Athens,' ante-room—chalk drawing of Raphael's 'Transfiguration,' by Casanova; portrait gallery—Sp. Percival, Sheridan, Hudson the dwarf (by Mytens), Haydn, Bp. Hurd (by Gainsbro'), etc., and A. Mantegna's 'Triumphs of Caesar,' in distemper on linen; Queen's guard chamber—Abel the musician, Opie's 'Mrs. Delany,' 'Hen. IV.' (by Pourbus), Kneller's 'Sir I. Newton,' and 'Locke,' Greuze's 'Mad. de Pompadour,' ante-room, with models of ships, by Marshall; Queen's presence chamber—sea pieces by Vanderveide, Serres, Paton, Huggins, views of London, etc. In the beautiful pleasure gardens of 40 acres, laid out in Will. III.'s time, are long avenues and walks of 8 m., a canal ¾ m. long, 4 vases by G. Cibber, etc., and 4 bronze statues; the giant elms (one 28 ft. girth), an oak 83 ft. girth, a poplar 97 ft. high, cork trees, chestnuts. The private gardens have 7 figures of Ceres, Bacchus, etc., an orange myrtle planted by Will. III., a black hampburgh vine planted 1769, 13 in. girth, which fills the grape house, and produced at one time nearly 2500 bunches, or more than 18 cwt. of grapes. Will. III. laid out the maze, near Lion gate; and the whole is supplied with water brought by Wolsey from Combe and R. Colne, by aqueducts which pass under the Thames. Pavilions in H. C. Park, built by Wren, was the seat of Duke of Kent; Bushy, of Will. IV. late of the Queen Dowager. Wren lived at H. C. Green; Toy Inn was built by Cromwell for his roundhead guard; and the wooden bridge erected 1750. Here Edw. VI. was born 1537, and his mother J. Seymour died two days after; Henry proclaimed Cath. Howard 1540, married Cath. Parr 1543, and kept Christmas 1543 and '45; Edw. VI. kept court here; Mary kept Christmas with her husband 1558, and Elizabeth 1572, 1593; Jas. I. presided 1603-4 at the conference between the churchmen and presbyterians which led to the new version of the Bible, and his Queen died here 1618; Ch. I. was here 1625 during the plague, also 1636-7, and 1647 a prisoner; Cromwell was frequently here, as in 1657 when his daughter Eliz. became Lady Falconberg, and in '58 when his favourite one, Mrs. Claypole, died; Ch. II. occasionally, as was Jas. II. when he received the Pope's Nuncio; Will. III. made it his favourite seat, and died here of a fall from his horse; 'Great Anne' gave birth to Duke of Gloucester 1689, and kept her court here; Geo. I. used the Gt. Hall as a theatre 1718, and Geo.
